WHAT TO DO WITH BREAD CRUMBS; MRS. WILSON GIVES GOOD RECIPES

How to Make a Fruit Pudding, Cake and Pie With Them—All Are Delicious

Using the Crumbs as a Cereal for the Children and Turning Them Into Cookies

By MRS. M. A. WILSON

NO MATTER how careful a housewife may try to utilize all the bread, some will accumulate and become stale. The housewife will then use some for bread pudding, some for brown betty and some for bread crumbs, and then finally admit that she doesn't know just what to do with the balance. Then again others frankly admit that when there is an accumulation of stale bread, they usually have such poor success with their puddings that they feel it is a waste of time and material to make them; thus they throw this stale bread in the garbage.

Many attractive dishes, including a cereal that the children just love to have for breakfast, can be made from stale bread. First, place the bread in a pan and place in a cool oven or over the range to dry. Now place the medium knife on the food chopper and put the well-dried stale bread through the chopper, then sift it through a colander. This gives you two kinds of crumbs: the fine and the coarse.

Use the fine for coating foods to be fried and in au gratin dishes; the coarse may be served for a breakfast cereal, using either hot or cold milk. Serve hot milk for the children. Here are some other uses for crumbs:

Place in a bowl and add

One egg,

One and one-half cupfuls of coarse bread crumbs,
One and one-half cupfuls of wheat flour,
One-half cupful of seeded raisins,
Two teaspoonfuls of baking powder.
Mix in the order given, beating hard. Pour in well-greased and floured mold. Boil or steam for two hours and then serve with vanilla or cream sauce.

One-half teaspoonful of allspice,
One-quarter teaspoonful of nutmeg.
Place in a bowl in the order given and beat to thoroughly mix. Bake in a greased and floured pan for forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

Congress Pie

Line an oblong cheesecake pan with plain pastry and then prepare a filling of
One cupful of sirup,
One-half cupful of brown sugar,

Water Icing

Juice of one-half orange,
Two teaspoonfuls of melted butter,
XXXX sugar.
Use enough sugar to spread the mixture. Beat hard for two minutes and then cover top of icing with cocoanut.

Bread Custard Pudding

Four one cupful of boiling water over two cupfuls of coarse bread crumbs. Stand aside for one hour. Now add
One cupful of cocoanut,
Two-thirds cupful of brown sugar,
One teaspoonful of vanilla,
One-half cupful of raisins.

A COFFEE CAKE FOR SUNDAY

Somehow Sunday morning breakfast is a festive meal in most homes. For tomorrow, how about a delicious coffee cake like the one shown in the picture? Here is the recipe for it: Place in a bowl one egg, four tablespoonfuls of shortening, one-half cupful of brown sugar, three-quarters of a cupful of water, two cupfuls of flour and three level tablespoonfuls of baking powder. Beat to mix and pour in well-greased baking pan. Cover with crumbs made as follows: Place in a bowl six tablespoonfuls of brown sugar, four tablespoonfuls of flour and two tablespoonfuls of shortening. Rub a cupful of crumbs and spread over the cake. Bake twenty-five minutes in moderate oven.

One-half cupful of sugar.

Adventures With a Purse

"CONFOUND this iron!" you exclaim. Impatiently as the rough surface catches in the pink crepe de chine blouse you are taking such pains to do up nicely. And you rummage in vain for a candle or some kind of wax to rub over the iron surface. What you need is a waxing pad or two, specially prepared for this very purpose, and the exact shape of the iron. You can get them for five cents each.

Bureau Scarf

An attractive bureau scarf can be constructed from the pieces cut from cable or bobbinet curtains (when shortening them to easement length) by cutting them in squares of desired size to fit bureau, placing them diamond shape and joining together with insertion. Finish edge with lace to match. One of the many pretty crochet patterns is good for this, when the cost is very small and the finished scarf a thing of beauty.

Cleaning Bottles

Small brass shavings are found at any machine shop where brass is used. After using with soda, pour water and all into small cloth bag, sugar, salt or tobacco bag, hang up, let dry; they never rust, are always ready, won't scratch, as brass is softer than glass, yet sharp and pointed enough to clean all corners.

Cleaning White Robe

To the Editor of Woman's Page:
Dear Madam—Could you send me one of your readers tell me what will clean a white fur robe which has become yellow?

It is possible to clean a white fur robe at home with cornmeal, but this will not remove the yellow tinge from it. This yellow tinge is in the fur originally and then the piece is bleached white. Therefore, when the fur gets old it is apt to turn yellow again. To use the cornmeal in cleaning first brush the robe thoroughly to remove all dust and then sprinkle thoroughly with the meal, leaving it well down to the skin. Leave on for several days and then brush out and hang in the air. Send a self-addressed envelope for the answer to your second question.

Dainty White Lingerie

A Daily Fashion Talk by Florence Rose

Two dainty white undergarments that are unusual and could be made at home if one is handy with the needle. They are described in today's fashion talk.

IN spite of everything we may try to make ourselves believe to the contrary, we are going to be very practical in our choice of garments for some time to come. It is the clothes that are the best value for the money and those that are going to wear which will be the favorites. Money value the women feel they must see in what they buy these days and that stands for good material and perfect cut. It is safe to say that no part of a woman's attire so demands these two important items as do her undergarments. After all, undergarments get the hardest wear and nothing is more miserable or uncomfortable than a piece of underwear that is poorly cut and pulls on the body.

There are many women who always have and always will make their own; very likely more women would love to do so if only they had the time or the talent. There is much to be said in favor of making one's own; at least one can have just what is wanted in the way one wishes it.

And So They Were Married

THE day Scott left Ruth held him close and clung to him as if she would never let him go. He was so close together that they had been in weeks, but not quite close enough to break down all the barriers that had been erected. It was another case of deferred opportunity, because if Scott had suddenly asked Ruth to go to the masquerade, she would have gone instantly, instead of being so content with her present situation. "I hope you enjoy tomorrow night," "I don't care," said her heart, "I don't care at all. I think he's glad he's getting away."

Woman Ought to Wash Dishes

Jim says he hopes he won't ever have to live in a boarding house, because since I've been using Al Sauce he doesn't know what it means to eat commonplace hash or stew. He says he's never had a left-over steak either—oh, dear, no! I cut it in pieces for serving, and when I've got it slightly heated I pour over it a mixture of a quarter of a pound of melted butter substituted and two tablespoonfuls of Al Sauce.

NOT ALLOWING YOUR GIRLS TO GO AROUND WITH BOYS

An Open Letter to Parents Who Think They Are Acting Wisely, Why So Many Early and Unhappy Marriages Result Where Daughters Are "Boxed In"

SO MANY letters have come to me of late bemoaning the fact that fathers and mothers will not allow daughters to go around with the boys that one of the most important things in the world for me at the present moment seems to be to write an open letter to these parents.

DEAR Father and dear Mother—In the first place, what can you be thinking of? Don't you know that you cannot close youth up tight in your hands? Youth is not like that. It is a state of mind, and no matter how tightly you clasp your hand it will slip out between your fingers. The important thing in rearing a girl is to keep her from going around with boys, but to make her go with them under your eyes and in the right way.

THE sort of boys your girl will associate with, if you do not let her associate with any at all, is the sort she will meet on the street corners. "Not my girl," perhaps you are saying. Yes, everybody's girl. It is natural for them to want to meet boys, and parents do not realize the extent of meeting them on the sly that goes on. And the present is bad enough, dear knows, but the future you are paving for your daughter is worse. This to-morrow is the strange world, all the more attractive because done at stolen minutes, leads in many cases to early and utterly undesirable marriages and, in fact, to the matrimonial mix-ups and troubles that form a large part of the world's misery.

Parents have no one to blame but themselves for this misfortune that is theirs. It is not the fault of the world, but of the parents who have no one to blame but themselves for this misfortune that is theirs.
